The Client

SeeMe is changing how people find jobs. An end-to-end recruitment platform, to enable applicants to find, apply and track job applications whilst allowing employers to stay in control the entire time.

The Project

Myth partnered with SeeMe Hired to design and develop their app and software platform. The project itself included complex algorithms and onboarding processes with a focus on confidentiality for both candidates and businesses. As the business grew through several rounds of funding Myth continued to support the team in revisions and additional features as well as staffing and management changes. The systems were built to scale and have continue to grow with the business and team.

JuiceJar —

Driving efficiency and user experience in a busy chain of coffee and juice bars

Client
Juice Jar

Industry
Food & Technology

What we did
User Experience
Mobile App Development
Software Development

The Client

Juice Jar is a chain of local coffee and juice bars with branches across the UK with plans to open several more in the coming months. With a growing and frequently change staff team a challenge across their branches was managing the multiple sources orders were coming from: phone, in-store, Deliveroo, Uber Eats etc and ensuring staff were adequately trained to manage them all.

The Project

We worked with the team to build an internal system that would consolidate the orders into one dashboard to allow the staff in store to manage orders and the kitchen staff to process efficiently. With plans to scale quickly the business new the ordering process had to be manageable to allow staff to train quickly and provide a consistency of service across stores and customers regardless of their method of ordering. A great example of a business using technology to facilitate growth and manage growing pains, exactly the type of project and team with love partnering with.

The Client

The Lir Academy is Ireland's National Academy of Dramatic Art at Trinity College Dublin offering a range of postgraduate, undergraduate and short courses in theatre related subjects. The previous website was dated and clunky, it also had no functionality for payments or student applications.

The Solution

We partnered with the college to redesign their site and close a gap in the student application process. With their students in mind, we build from the ground up, a custom application website and back-end which also allows online payments, payment with instalments, booking accommodation, sales reporting and a wide range of custom requirements. Since launch early 2020, we have continued to develop the website for The Lir, building new features on an almost monthly basis.

The Client

Indigo are a trade-only marketplace, distributing home automation and AV solutions across Europe to the residential and commercial marketplace.

The Solution

We partnered with the Indigo team to take their existing platform, redesign the user experience from the ground up and improve the development of their software. After the initial project was complete, we were asked to develop multiple new customer features including a brand new tiered rewards system for their customers and a fully bespoke system design tool for installers to use with their customers—all of which integrate directly into their eCommerce store.

Description

The Sunfire Atmos Subwoofer is designed to give you the best possible low-frequency sound quality for your Home Theater experience. It incorporates a tremendously powerful 1400 Watt built-in amplifier and a pair of drivers to produce tight, floor-rumbling, denture-rattling bass that you can feel as well as hear.

The Atmos subwoofer has an automatic equalization system which will tailor the subwoofer output to compensate for any room effects. Great bass performance through thick and thin. The role of any Surround is to keep the woofer on the straight and narrow as it moves back and forth. The straighter the woofer -- the better the fidelity. To best accommodate the longer 'throw' of the Atmos woofer, Sunfire engineers designed a unique Asymmetrical Cardiod Surround. The ACS got its name because of the varying thickness of the wall of the surround from one side to the other. So what does this all mean to you? It means the ACS allows up to 1.8 inches of 'throw' with tight, well defined bass that combines extreme output with very low distortion and a quality of sound that is unique to Atmos. Another state-of-the-art advancement artfully executed and timelessly designed

Dish Dash Dine —

A fresh new concept for mobile food ordering for rural communities

The Client

DishDashDine is a mobile ordering startup in the UK and Ireland that aims to solve a gap in the food delivery market for rural communities. Its purpose is to provide an Uber Eats/Deliveroo experience for a fraction of the cost for smaller restaurants and suppliers in rural areas.

The Project

Dish Dash Dine approached Myth with big ambitions to take on Uber, Just Eat and Deliveroo with a concept that they had already tested and proven. We partnered with the startup to taking their no-code demo to design and develop a completely new mobile app from the ground up, with a key focus on the consumer user experience and the restaurant owner.

The Client

MPS Data are specialists in developing innovative forms of data based sporting analysis, to provide simple and practical bespoke solutions for football clubs.

The Project

We were tasked to develop multiple new integrations into the software and provide consultancy for future development. New functionality included a new video platform that would allow football clubs to scout players and review relevant video clips of that player and a new watcher platform to allow their game watchers to enter and control data input.

The Client

Newell are a large Northern Irish supermarket chain. Dedicated to providing the local community with quality, great service and fresh food.

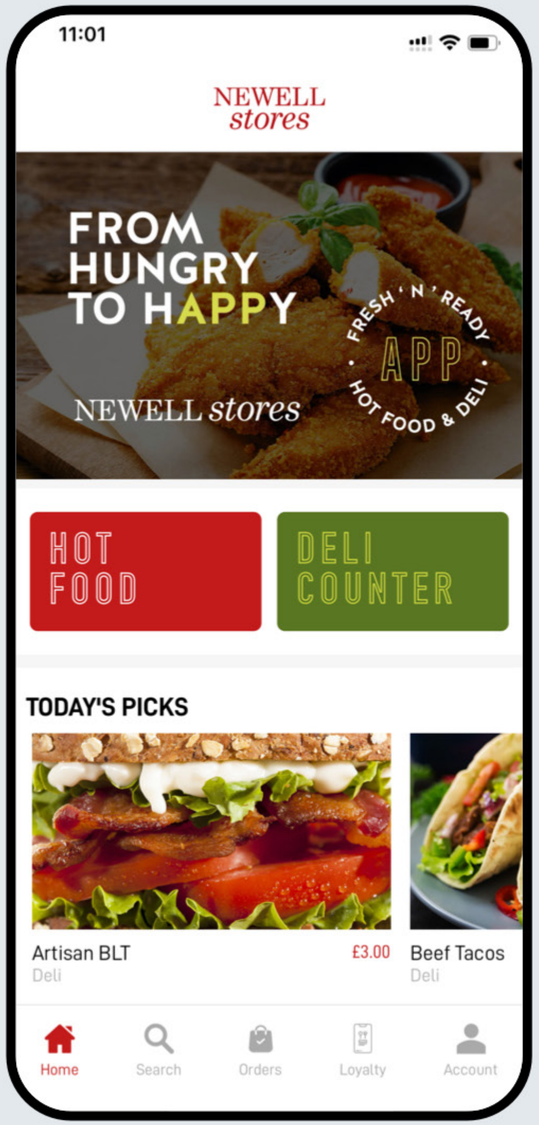

The Solution

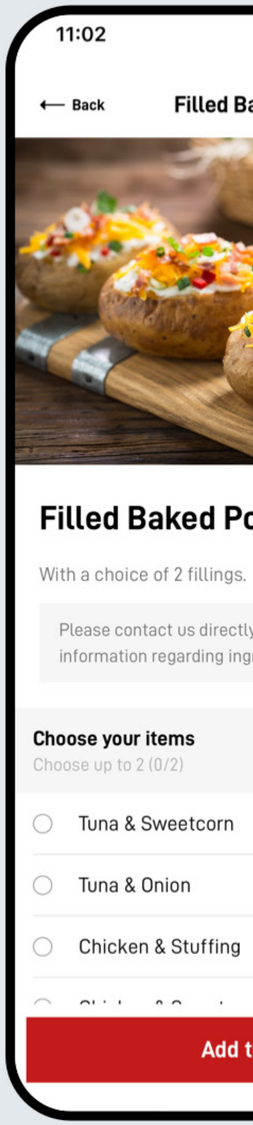

Competing with Tesco, M&S, SuperValu etc.. is a tall order. We were approached by Newell to do just that. We partnered with Newell to develop a brand new online store with click and collect functionality to impact the affects of Covid-19 restrictions and provide the brand with a digital platform for future growth. We partnered with the brand to also design and develop a mobile app for on-the-go ordering and skip the queue as well as a custom loyalty system for managing collected points. The entire system includes a software layer for pairing with their instore POS and stock management systems.

Our approach to all projects follows our simple, tried and tested process.

Discover

We simplify complex techniques through exploration and discovery. Our discovery process is key to understanding the requirements of the project to deliver the project on time and on budget.

Design

Our design approach has been carefully considered to understand users and their needs. We design to simplify, to challenge the normal and make the complicated, simple.

Develop

Our development process follows a customised Agile methodology allowing us to deliver complex technical milestones closely monitored by quality assurance and functional testing.

Mission

We’re here for those who challenge convention and push for better.

We are a design and development team of enthusiasts with a passion for technology and design, building digital products for clients since 2015.
